

Educators are Under Attack for Teaching
Accurate History
Scholars, Political Leaders, and Teachers
Respond

Telling the Truth about History

Barbara Krauthamer (Moderator)

Dean of the College of Humanities and Fine Arts and Professor of History at UMass Amherst and Award-Winning Historian of African American Slavery

Laura Briggs

Professor of Women, Gender, Sexuality Studies at UMass Amherst and Member of Organization of American Historians Academic Freedom Committee

Shevrin Jones

Florida State Senator, Educator, and Leading Voice Against Critical Race Theory "Bans" and "Don't Say Gay" Legislation

Jennifer Rich

Executive Director of the Center for Holocaust and Genocide Studies and Associate Professor of Sociology at Rowan University

Raphael Rogers

Associate Professor of Education Practice at Clark University, Experienced History Teacher, who Focuses on Racism in Children's Texts and K-12 Education

Monday, April 4

4:30 pm – 6:00 pm ET

Online via Zoom

Free and Open to All

Register to join us at

www.umass.edu/history/TTAH

UMassAmherst

College of Humanities
& Fine Arts
History

FIU
Wolfsonian Public
Humanities Lab

This event is co-presented by the UMass Amherst Department of History and the Wolfsonian Public Humanities Lab at Florida International University. It is co-sponsored by the following UMass Amherst entities: Civic Engagement and Service-Learning, Center of Racial Justice and Youth-Engaged Research, College of Humanities and Fine Arts, College of Social and Behavioral Sciences, Institute for Holocaust and Genocide Studies, Philosophy Department, Public History Program, and the W.E.B. Du Bois Department of Afro-American Studies. See website for a running list.